

Think About Homeschooling: What It Is What It Isn't Why It Works

What it is

What is it? is a question that can be asked about anything. It can be asked about a physical object, a concept, or an event. When we ask what something is, we are asking for a definition. A definition is a statement that explains the meaning of a word or phrase.

There are many different ways to define something. One way is to use a dictionary. A dictionary is a book that contains a list of words and their definitions. Another way to define something is to use a thesaurus. A thesaurus is a book that contains a list of words that have similar meanings.

We can also define something by using our own words. When we define something in our own words, we are called to use our own understanding of the word or phrase. This can be a more difficult task than using a dictionary or a thesaurus, but it can also be more rewarding.

When we define something, we are not just learning what the word or phrase means. We are also learning about the world around us. By understanding the definitions of words and phrases, we can better understand the things that we see, hear, and experience.

What it isn't

What it isn't is a question that can be asked about anything. It can be asked about a physical object, a concept, or an event. When we ask what something is not, we are asking for a negative definition. A negative definition is a statement that explains what something is not.

There are many different ways to define something negatively. One way is to use the word "not." For example, we can say that a dog is not a cat. This means that a dog is not the same thing as a cat.

Another way to define something negatively is to use the word "opposite." For example, we can say that hot is the opposite of cold. This means that hot and cold are two different things.

We can also define something negatively by using our own words. When we define something negatively in our own words, we are called to use our own understanding of the word or phrase. This can be a more difficult task than using the word "not" or the word "opposite," but it can also be more rewarding.

When we define something negatively, we are not just learning what the word or phrase does not mean. We are also learning about the world around us. By understanding the negative definitions of words and phrases, we can better understand the things that we see, hear, and experience.

Why it works

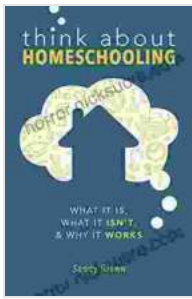

Why it works is a question that can be asked about anything. It can be asked about a physical object, a concept, or an event. When we ask why something works, we are asking for an explanation. An explanation is a statement that tells us how something works.

There are many different ways to explain something. One way is to use a scientific method. The scientific method is a process that involves making a hypothesis, testing the hypothesis, and drawing a .

Another way to explain something is to use a logical argument. A logical argument is a statement that is based on evidence and reasoning.

We can also explain something by using our own words. When we explain something in our own words, we are called to use our own understanding of the thing that we are explaining. This can be a more difficult task than using a scientific method or a logical argument, but it can also be more rewarding.

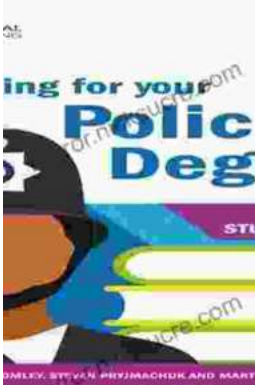

When we explain something, we are not just learning how it works. We are also learning about the world around us. By understanding the explanations of things, we can better understand the things that we see, hear, and experience.
